Since the government announced a ban on all weddings until further notice, many of those planning to take honeymoons this year will unfortunately have to cancel their plans. The following round-up should give couples some much-needed inspiration about the best places to go for their honeymoon in a post-Covid-19 world.

This is one of the most anticipated and indulgent holidays you'll ever take, so naturally expectations are high. Once-in-a-lifetime experiences such as castaway candlelit dinners on uninhabited islands, diving with reef sharks and staying in over-water villas with their own steps into the sea have long lured happy couples. But mini-moons and hotels with eco credentials are being considered more than ever before. We have also included some affordable (but chic) properties, if you overspent on the wedding but still want to get away. And twin-centre honeymoons – city and spa, safari and sand – continue to be very popular.

Some things never go out of honeymoon style, though: a big bed, amazing views, fantastic food and top-notch service. We hope this list gives you some inspiration for where to spend the first hazy few days of wedded life together.

14. Sujan Sher Bagh, India

Tiger tracking at its finest, Sher Bagh's 12 white hand-stitched tents lie on the border of Ranthambore National Park, where game drives pass Mughal ruins and jungle sheltering mongoose and leopards. Exquisite Indian suppers are cooked on outdoor clay ovens, massages take place in the jungle spa and tent interiors include polished teak furniture and a bell for your butler.
